7.3 RRF Programmatic Area

As a development organization, RRF plays a crucial role in addressing multidimensional challenges by working across vital sectors such as financial inclusion, skill development, sustainable food security, and agriculture. Its commitment extends to health, education, and gender equality, which are fundamental for societal progress. Moreover, RRF's focus on environmental sustainability, climate change, and cultural and sports initiatives ensures holistic community development. By integrating efforts across these areas, RRF fulfills its responsibility to uplift vulnerable populations and foster long-term resilience.

Financial Inclusion

This is defined financial inclusion in Bangladesh as access to financial services from officially regulated and supervised entities in which banks and financial institutions are licensed by the Bangladesh Bank, MFIs by the Microcredit Regulatory Authority (MRA). RRF aims to include everybody in society by giving them basic financial services regardless of their income or savings. It focuses on providing financial solutions to the economically underprivileged in Bangladesh. In particular, the poor need financial support for development in various sectors, and RRF is determined to increase the income of the poor from the very beginning to make sure their social and moral dignity.

Skills Development It has been accepted as true that human resource plays a vital role in the knowledge economy and working population and it is becoming an increasingly important factor for the performance of individuals, organizations and whole economies. However, the upgrading of skill-based labor market due to technological and organizational change is one of the major threats for the low skilled workers in Bangladesh, as they are being unable to adjust their skills according to the market demand. In this context, Rural Reconstruction Foundation in association with many associates and partners implementing different skills project in various trade.

Sustainable livelihood & Food Security

Rural Reconstruction Foundation's food security and livelihood projects, as well as dealing with issues regarding production, access and income to prevent and anticipate future outbreaks of malnutrition. In short, our intent is to improve a vulnerable community's access to sustainable sources of food and income. A livelihood is sustainable when it enables people to cope with and recover from shocks and stresses (such as natural disasters and economic or social upheavals) and enhance their well-being and that of future generations without undermining the natural environment or resource base. Livelihood skills include technical and vocational abilities (carpentry, sewing, weaving, and gardening, among others). RRF is addressing the livelihood skills to include the physical ability of household members to carry out activities regardless of their educational levels. Livelihood promotion is a set of development based interventions that involve improving the resilience of household livelihoods so that food and other basic needs can be met on a sustainable basis Interventions of this type entail strategies such as diversifying livelihoods strategies; creating alternative income is also a massive consideration.

Agriculture

In Bangladesh, about 80% of people live in rural area and the most part they depend on agriculture, forestry, fisheries, livestock and related activities for survival. Our intent for promotion of the rural economy in a sustainable way has the potential of increasing employment opportunities in rural areas, reducing regional income disparities, and ultimately reducing poverty at its very source. In addition, development of rural areas may contribute to the preservation of the rural landscape, the protection of indigenous cultures and traditions while rural societies could serve as a social buffer for the urban poor in periods of economic crisis or social urban unrest. RRF has been continuously implementing various types of agro-based projects with the help of various donor agencies over the years. Moreover, the organization is playing an important role in the development of agriculture through financial assistance to marginal and sharecroppers under the microfinance program. RRF is determined to take necessary steps considering agriculture as a priority.

Environment & Climate Change

Bangladesh is exceptionally vulnerable to climate change. It has been estimated that by 2050, one in every seven people in Bangladesh will be displaced by climate change. Up to 18 million people may have to move because of sea level rise alone. In addition, people all over the world, including Bangladesh, are already facing various problems due to climate change. For the poorest country like Bangladesh, tackling this issue is quite challenging. In this case RRF is working to promote social or political change on a broad scale or very locally. We play a critical part in developing society, improving communities, and promoting citizen participation and tries to impact the beneficiaries directly and indirectly as they sought sustainable solutions in various sectors such as finance, education, and healthcare. Our aim to increase capacity and to enrich and empower citizens so that they can improve their quality of life themselves. We are already implementing various projects with the help of different donor agencies on this issue, especially in coastal and disaster prone areas.

Healthcare

Bangladesh has made impressive progress in many of the health-related indicators over the past few decades. However, challenges still remain. Although Bangladesh is one of the few countries to achieve its Millennium Development Goal in reducing childhood mortality well ahead of 2015, the decline in under-five mortality has stalled in recent years. Maternal mortality ratio also fell sharply between 2001 and 2010, but has stagnated at 196 maternal deaths per 1,000 live births since then. Rural Reconstruction Foundation focuses on improving maternal and child health, expanding family planning and reproductive health, integrating family planning and nutrition into basic health care, and strengthening public health systems to improve the quality and availability of services across the country. Rural Reconstruction Foundation began Community Healthcare program with various healthcare services for the underprivileged rural people who are mainly underprivileged with regards to healthcare services in hard to reach areas. “Community Healthcare Program” is a much-needed intervention of Primary Health Care services to the doorsteps of rural people.

Education

Bangladesh has a substantial program of basic education both in formal and non-formal education with a large institutional network in this field. Besides a major effort in the public sector, a large number of local private or non-government organization are also involved in this effort. Cultural & Human Development

As a part of inclusive initiatives for sustainable poverty reduction and beyond-poverty development, it is essential to patronize and promote mental & physical development of the young chaps in order to build a talented Nation as a whole. The main objectives are to create awareness among the young and adolescent's generation against all sorts of crimes as: terrorism, sexual harassment, drug abasement, and women-violence or oppression etc. It is not possible to solve all the problems as a whole by eradicating financial poverty. Sustainable human development will not be possible without integrating the development of human endowment with economic development. As part of a multi-dimensional program of sustainable poverty alleviation by integrating the practice of human scholarship with economic development, the practice of moral values, empathy, adolescent health and nutrition awareness, child marriage and sexual harassment.
